Because you're a collection of five components (physical, mental, emotional, social and spiritual) there is much more to being healthy than simply feeling well physically.

Being truly healthy is the result of your entire being functioning at peak performance, and any imbalance in one or more of these five areas will have a profoundly negative effect on you as a whole. Thus, homeopathy is a superior approach to health care and wellness because it considers you, the individual, as a whole rather than simply as a collection of symptoms.

As a highly skilled homeopath Gia understands that whether emotional or physical the discomfort you are experiencing may be rooted in an emotional, spiritual, social, or mental trauma from your present or past. Her proven knowledge and skill as a homeopath allows her to tailor a remedy specifically to YOUR unique situation.

Gia's tender, warm, and understanding style has helped countless clients experience total health. Some of her past clients have said:

"2 months has passed since I spent at Chiva-Som and I became healthy again thanks to you."

"I now can eat and sleep without any problem."

"Thank you very much for your support, you mean a lot to my life."

"Your comforting, inspirational and good energy stayed with me when I left Chiva-Som."

Schedule your FREE 15-minute initial consultation and you will find that Gia's gentle, compassionate energy will give you a safe place to discover and address the issues in your life that are preventing you from feeling happy, satisfied and complete.

Together, you and Gia can make a profound difference in your complete health!
